Fully opposed

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of the proposal to replace the current 30mph default speed limit on restricted roads with a 20mph limit.

Please explain the reasons for your response

I live in a small village called Newburgh in Aberdeenshire it's a mile long from the start to the end of the Main street we have nothing in place as to slow traffic down many residents have tried in the past for the police and local councillors to do something to try slowing the traffic down in our little village but it falls on deaf ears we have tried to get speed bumps all we got was 2 small islands at the start of the village and the end once there past the first island they just speed up again till they get to the last island So why would you think reducing the speed limit from 30mph to 20 would make a difference in our village let along any small village

Q2. Could the aims of this proposal be better delivered in another way (without a Bill in the Scottish Parliament)?

Unsure

Q3. What do you think would be the main advantages, if any, of the proposal?

There wouldn't an advantage if any wouldn't stop people speeding

Q4. What do you think would be the main disadvantages, if any, of the proposal?

No Response

Q5. What other measures do you think would be needed to maximise compliance with the new national 20mph speed limit on restricted roads, for example in relation to advertising signage and police enforcement.

Drivers don't bother looking at speed limits most drivers don't care what the speed limit is they do what ever speed they won't
Police enforcement well that's a joke the only time we see police is if you have to telephone about a crime or if there out driving under supervision

Q11. Do you have any other comments or suggestions on the proposal to establish a 20mph default speed limit on restricted roads?

Sorry but I think the money could be better spent on speed bumps that will slow speeding down in small villages like ours
