Partially supportive

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of the proposal to replace the current 30mph default speed limit on restricted roads with a 20mph limit.

Please explain the reasons for your response

I think it's a great idea but I'm sure how you would police it as people already speed over the 30 limit. It would also need to be consistent so no 20 in some places and not in others.

Q2. Could the aims of this proposal be better delivered in another way (without a Bill in the Scottish Parliament)?

Unsure

Q3. What do you think would be the main advantages, if any, of the proposal?

Safety for other road users and pedestrians

Q4. What do you think would be the main disadvantages, if any, of the proposal?

It might feel tedious late at night or early mornings when there a few others in the road or pavements.

Q5. What other measures do you think would be needed to maximise compliance with the new national 20mph speed limit on restricted roads, for example in relation to advertising signage and police enforcement.

There aren't enough police to go round anyway so adding to their already heavy workload wouldn't help.

Good, clear signage and average speed cameras?

Page 17: General

Q11. Do you have any other comments or suggestions on the proposal to establish a 20mph default speed limit on restricted roads?

I would love to feel safer walking, especially to and from school and feeling comfortable that my kids could walk home alone safely. Have you considered pedestrian ways? Cycleway type lanes but for pedestrians? With a bit of a divide between people and cars....
